The 1986 LOG will attempt to capture the essence and quality of Freehold High School, and especially the rekindled spirit and tradition which seemed somehow missing during the past few years. We hope you enjoy this account of the 1985-86 school year and its many activities, experiences and triumphs. They will live forever in the pages of this record.

Bruce becomes a superstar

SPRINGSTEEN

By ROBERT HILBURN
(Second in a series)

Born To Run" breathed with the same kind of discovery that made Elvis Presley's "Sun Sessions" and Bob Dylan's "Highway 61 Revisited" the two most important American rock albums before it. Listening to all three works, you feel present at the forging of a major artistic vision. You sense the artist's excitement at finding something within himself that he hadn't known was there until it burst forth in the studio.

While "Sun Sessions," Presley's first recordings, unveiled rock and roll as we now define it, and "Highway 61 Revisited" updated the energy and drive of early rock and added a fierce intelligence, "Born to Run" demonstrated that Springsteen had the instincts, ambition and knowledge of rock's history to put the pieces of the fragmented rock scene back together. It was the purest glimpse in nearly a decade of the passion and power that had once been rock's hallmarks.

Springsteen has often said that he felt reborn the night he wrote "Born to Run," and his thrill and confidence spilled over to the E Street Band's recording of the cut and the live shows.

"I haven't changed, but things around me have changed. I'm not sure what it all means yet."

Freehold's best known graduate, The Boss, as he appears now (left), and as he looked in 1970.

DEDICATION

THE LOG

Freehold High School
Robertsville Road - Freehold, N. J. 07728

DEDICATION

The 1986 LOG is dedicated to Bruce Springsteen, Freehold High School's most notable alumnus. We admire The Boss because he is a public figure who has not exploited his popularity for personal glory, but rather has chosen to help those who have been less fortunate than he. Bruce's donations to various charities have been well-documented, as has his help to Vietnam Vets. In addition to his tremendous talent, these qualities have endeared him to millions of fans.

We at Freehold have special reason to honor The Boss. We share a common experience with him by walking these halls, and therefore feel a special bond. We look up to him as a positive figure at a time of general disdain for rock performers. Bruce's music has universal appeal because it touches upon feelings and experiences we all have had. He has given us even more reason to be proud of our town and our school.

Thanks, Bruce, and keep on rockin'.

The 1986 LOG Staff

ets went on sale for Bruce's opening show, phone circuits were tied up from Virginia to New Jersey.

The Boss is the rock 'n' roller of the 1980's. He gives of himself in every performance, putting on a marathon of pure, exuberant music. "I give my entire energy to the public", Bruce told Rolling Stone magazine, and no one is cheated. It might be "only rock and roll", but we like it.

In the summer of 1985, Bruce Springsteen's popularity reached its zenith. 236,000 tickets to his New York concert were sold in one day. Washington D.C. went crazy, too. When tick-

JERSEY GIRLS

Bruce's anthem to the young ladies of his home state is particularly appreciated in Freehold, home of a bevy of beautiful, talented Jersey Girls.

... "gonna cross the river to the Jersey side."

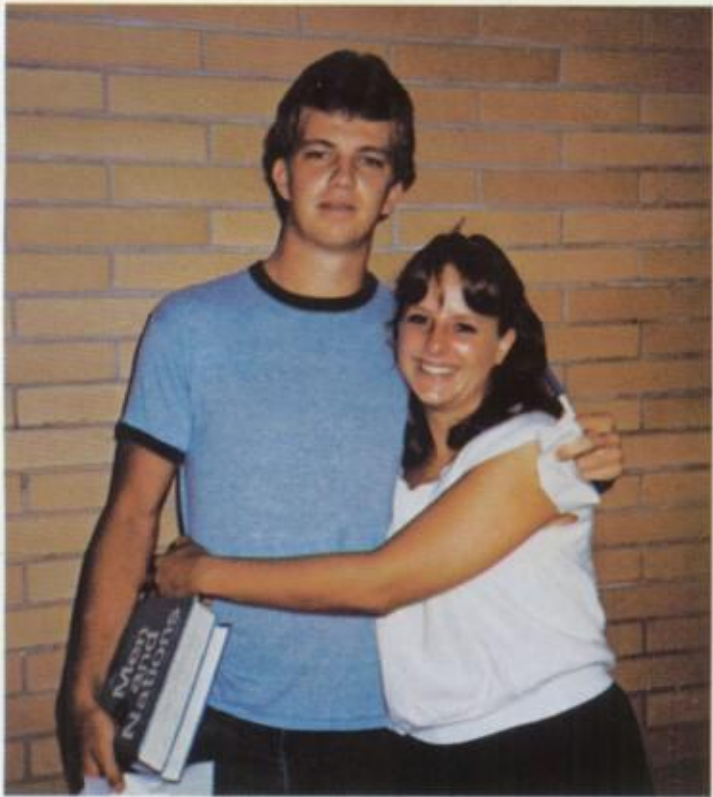

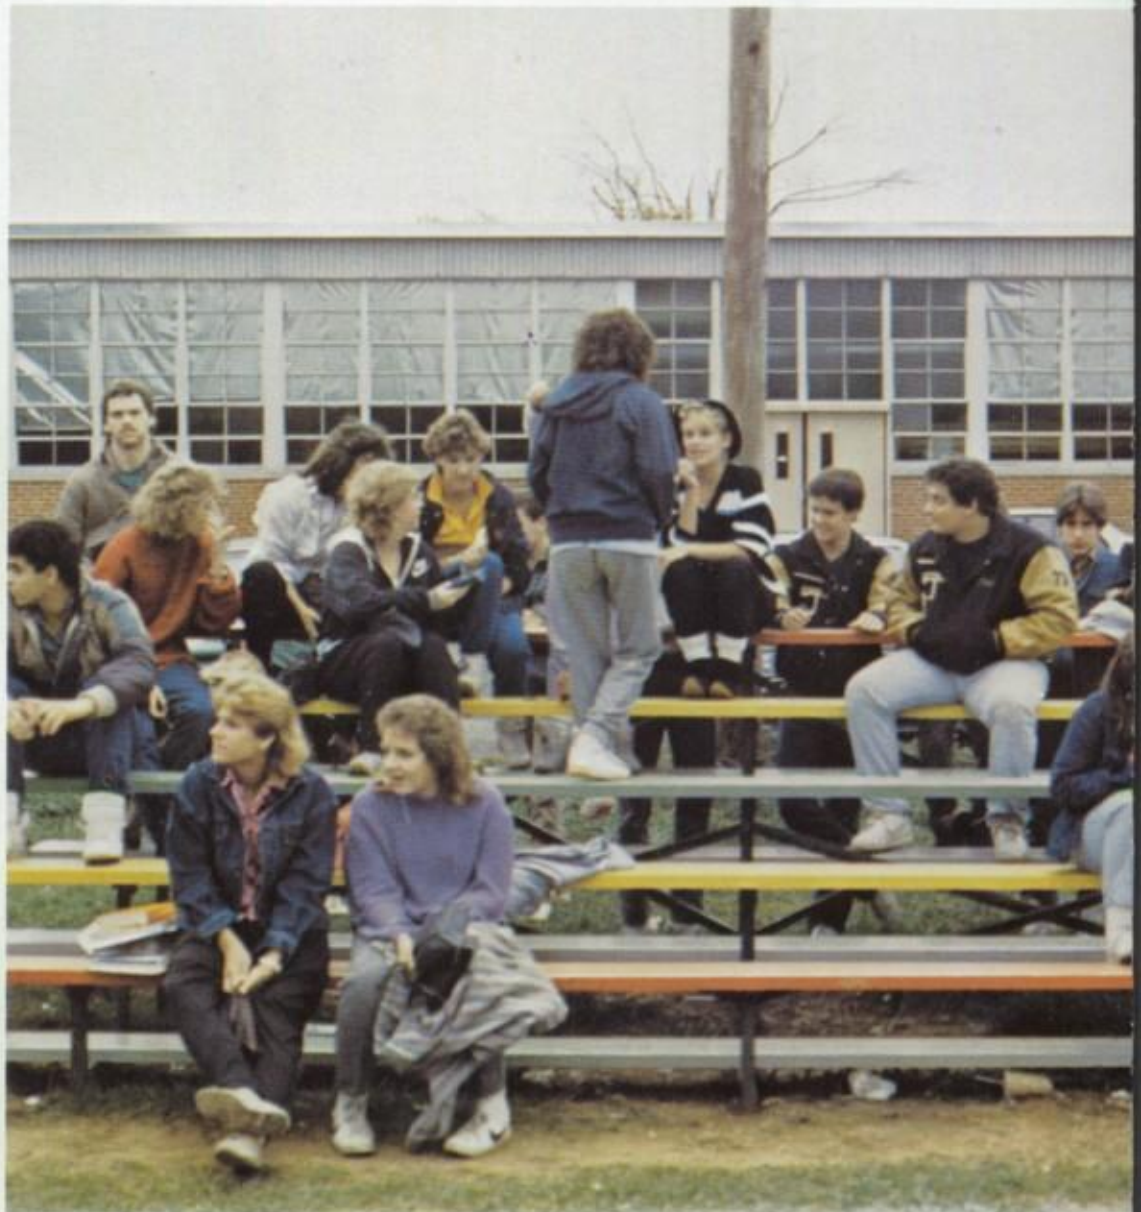

Other rockers have highlighted girls from a variety of places, but, as always, The Boss knows best. The finest are right here.

The Spirit of the Jersey Girl can be seen on the faces of Lucy, Linda and Mary as they pursue a full day of activities.

GLORY DAYS

"Glory days, Well they'll pass you by Glory days, in the wink of a young girl's eye
Glory days,
glory days . . . "

Someday we will remember those as Glory Days.

The Senior Class is advised by Mr. Wayne MacChesney, affectionately known as "Mac", and was represented at Homecoming by Chrissy Dock.

It is from the Senior Class that the school's leaders come, and the Class of '86 had no shortcomings in this area. We produced Joe Henderson, a star football player whose athletic prowess earned him a place in the national Sports Illustrated. Academically, we had Mary Maniscalco whose dedication to her school allowed her to travel to Japan as a young diplomat. But our roles as leaders did not stop with just these shining examples. The overwhelming majority of editors, presidents, queens, and captains in this school are from the Senior Class.

This was a year of rejuvenated spirit, noticeable especially in the beginning of the year during football season. Financially, the Senior Class had no problems to speak of having several fund raisers such as selling Christmas items and Boro jerseys. Our Prom was held at the Sheraton Gardens in Freehold on Saturday, June 7. For only 50 dollars, couples were treated to hors d'ouvres and a delicious rib entree.

However, there was some disappointment to be held. This year, because of a variety of reasons, there was no Disney World trip. We also must graduate on a Monday.

Yet in spite of this, it was a fantastic year for all of us, perhaps best summarized by our President, Richard Daesener: "It was an honor to be elected President for such a great Senior Class. This Class was one of the most successful and spirited classes in a long time. It had Division Championships in Football, Girls' Cross Country, Girls' Tennis, and Basketball. The high spirit was evident at football games with record crowds in attendance and at basketball games where students would wear blue and gold paint on their faces to cheer their teams on.

I'll never forget the closeness I experienced in my Senior year.

Good Luck, Class of '86!"

BEST LOOKING

Decidely the vainest people in the school, Jon Leidersdorff and Pam McCulloch reflect on their new titles. 2nd Place — Tim Coman and Ylva Egner.

MOST ATHLETIC

Our superstar athletes Joe Henderson and Darlene Thompson. 2nd Place — Scott Conover and Diane Matthews.

TEACHER'S PET

Here they are, the Brown Nosers. Mary Maiscalco and Matt Hymes try to appease Mr. Zerby. (Maybe he'd like them even better if they offered him a Shasta.) 2nd Place — Eric Hutcherson and Darlene Flagg.

NICEST EYES

Eric Hutcherson and Tracey Watkins try to take things into perspective. 2nd Place — Jon Leidersdorff and Jeanne Flaherty.

SENIOR MOSTS

Here they are at last! What everyone's been waiting for — the announcement of the Senior Mosts.

We tried to do things differently this year, expanding the possibilities by adding new titles. We hoped to in this way bring in new people, not just the usual crowd you would expect to have win everything.

One problem, however, with this year's election was that there were few votes turned in. Out of 231 Seniors, only 73 bothered to turn them in. Among those, many were not filled out completely. As a result, many students could win with only 4 or 5 votes.

MOST POPULAR

Everybody loves 'em. Rich Dae-sener and Chrissy Dock will no longer have any problems finding dates to the prom since they're now the people to be seen with. 2nd Place — Jon Leidersdorff and Pam McCulloch.

MOST CHANGED

Class Chameleons Lisa Hemphill and Jeff Bonner. (Hopefully it was for the better.) 2nd Place — Craig Kowalski and Stacie Ehrenfreund.

BEST ARTIST

Best Artist this year was a fill in. Anthony Slaughter and Joy Bolton bristle with artistic talent. 2nd Place — Sue Livingston.

BEST DRESSED

Jon Faris and Darlene Flagg show us their stylish stance. 2nd Place — Jon Leidersdorff and Lisa Hemphill.

CLASS COUPLE

Tim Coman and Heather Cruger, the perfect FHS couple. (And at least we've put that wooden thing to some use by having it as a background.) 2nd Place — Rich Daesener and Pam McCulloch (who else?)

MOST LIKELY TO SUCCEED

Matt Hymes and Mary Maniscalco, the next Bruce Springsteens? (Yeah, we know you'll be burnouts 5 years from now.) 2nd Place — Pam McCulloch and Stew Hou.

MOST FRIENDLY

Everybody's buddies — Eric Hutcherson and Chrissy Dock. 2nd Place — Al Kahwati and Sherry Mollica.

BEST ACTOR/ACTRESS

Jason Stanley and Amy Moore hamming it up on stage. 2nd Place — Jon Leidersdorff and Becky Moffitt/Cindy Perine.

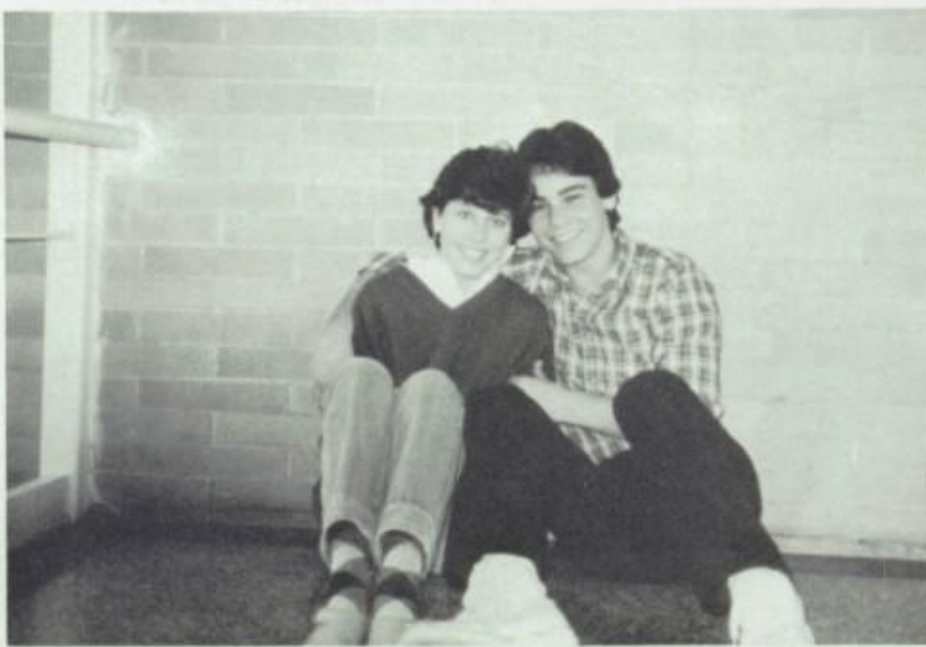

CLASS FLIRTS

The sleaziest Seniors at the Boro, Jon Leidersdorff and Michelle Froelich hanging out in the girls' bathroom. 2nd Place — Mike Sweetman and Amy Moore.

BEST MUSICIANS

Laura Grove and Jason Stanley tuning out in the halls.
2nd Place — Jon Leidersdorff and Sue Ramberger.

NICEST SMILE

Nicest Smile or was it Shortest? Cheesers Jeanne Flaherty and Charles D'Amato. 2nd Place — Richard Dae-sener and Pam McCulloch.

CLASS CLOWN

Funny Freeholders Sharon Glaser and Al Kahwati. (Show your chest, show your chest!!) 2nd Place — Eric Hutcherson and Tricia McCawley.

MOST ACTIVE

Michael Luongo and Mary Maniscalco, busy as usual. 2nd Place — Chrissy Dock and Eric Hutcherson/Richard Daesener.

BEST BODY

Tracey Fox and Jon Leidersdorff lifting together in the weight room. (I guess she lives up to her name.) 2nd Place — Eric Antico and Mary McKim.

MOST SPIRITED

EXCHANGE STUDENTS

This year, Freehold was fortunate to host 7 exchange students, an international flair to this school year making it one that we will never forget. Right: The exchange students lunching out during 7th period.

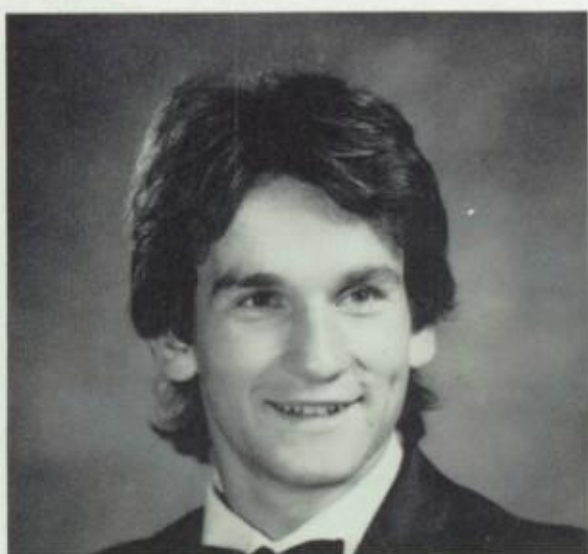

Above: Ylva and Gunhild on Halloween. Above Middle: Matt and Phil at the Senior Auction. Phil's first words in the U.S.A. — "Qu'est que c'est les femmes ici?"

Hi! My name is Maria Vigopoulou and my home is in Athens, Greece. This is my second time in the United States. During my year here in America, I have enjoyed the WPLJ-Power 95 morning jokes and having attended Freehold Boro High School.

Special memories will include: Mr. Parker's gym class with Lee Perry, Scott, and James Barnett; art classes with Mr. Reilly; play stage crew for "Fiddler on the Roof"; ski trip to Hunter Mountain; the understanding of Mr. Kuhnert for my jokes (!); the admirable tries by the faculty and staff to pronounce my last name; and late morning sign-ins with Miss Jehle — (dentention).

I will never forget this year and hope that I will meet you all again some time in the future. Good Luck!

My name is Matthias Bay and I am from Stuttgart, a city in southern West Germany where Mercedes and Porsches are made. Unlike East Germany, West Germany is a democracy much like the United States and in some ways has even more freedoms, but there are differences. Culturally, Germany has had its own way of life which it has developed over thousands of years and we are still holding onto it. America is a mixture of many different European cultures. As a result, things are slightly different. One example is Christmas. I was very surprised to see that many of you use plastic Christmas trees with colored electric lights. I've never seen these in Germany. Plastic trees are an example of the fast-paced way of life in America.

I was very lucky to have been allowed to stay with Mr. and Mrs. Moses and their daughter Kimberly. They are a fun family, and I've never had any problems. I have really enjoyed my stay in your country, but I'll be happy to go back to Germany. Keep Cool!

What up everybody? Let me introduce myself — my name is Phillipe Luca, Phil, for short. I am from Belgium and I live in Liege, a city about an hour away from Brussels. We are a civilized nation. We have jeans, Coke, and McDonald's. (Russia is not so close).

But America is very different. When I first saw the school, I thought it was a church. In Belgium, we've no lockers and my first week I was always late because it would stick. Teachers are also nicer here, like friends. Studies are easier here and not as important as they are in my country, but still cutting class here is almost impossible (Almost!) Life here is faster, but I have enjoyed it (Vive La Bud!) I would like to thank everyone who gave me this opportunity.

Hi! My name is Gunhild Nygard and I'm from Norway. I live just outside of Oslo.

I have always dreamed about going to America. Before I left Norway, I heard that I was going to Bruce Springsteen's hometown, and I was very excited. Most of my friends would give up everything they own to be in my seat.

I like Freehold, it is a small town and cozy. I am very interested in acting. It is what I want to do when I get older and there are many opportunities here. In fact, I have been in the school's plays.

I am happy that I have spent a year here. I have grown up a lot and learned a lot about life. Bye-bye to a high school that is well worth remembering. Thanks for everything.

My name is Ylva Egner, an exchange student from the southwest of Sweden.

For a long while I had a dream to go see the country everyone was talking about — America. In Europe we know mostly about only New York and California. In the rest of the areas I figured everyone dressed like in the 70's, lived on farms, drove huge cars and watched TV and drank beers. (This was not a totally wrong impression.) I thought of Americans as being outgoing and friendly, which I found to be true. Friends here go out of their way to be helpful and friendly.

Memories of here are mixed but mostly fun. I loved my host family and the school — all the teachers were great. I think it's sad that there isn't more to do here, but I love the great parties (except for the cops).

A lot of things are different here, especially that here teenagers are less mature and more dependent, mostly because parents don't let their kids grow up. I wish everyone could get the chance I had. It's a great experience.

(Mike is a di.....)

REMEMBER WHEN . . . ?

S.R. didn't sleep with a crowbar.

S.R. and M.L. got busted by Randolph Freshman year.

"Did he got busted?"

Michelle L. actually won a bet.

E.C. and S.R. got stuck in D.R.'s bathroom.

Mr. Mueller wore two different shoes to school.

Dawn C. was quiet for five minutes.

Darlene T. wasn't on crutches.

Sue told a joke right.

Michelle ran into a pole at a XC race.

Nights in my camper.

Mrs. Moses's class during the blackout.

Mrs. Crawford's funny faces in accounting.

We made videos in Leonard's class.

You had a crush on that special someone.

Mary M. got tackled when she was a stat.

Tannenbaum missed Kuhnert's tree ceremony.

We had a minute of silence.

Michelle F's car always broke down on the way to Great Adventure.

We had class assemblies and would always get thrown out of them.

S.C. and J.K. lost the indoor shotput in the parking lot.

The girls XC team mooned and got their picture taken.

D.T. and J.C. had a split-pea soup fight Freshman year in the lunchroom.

Mrs. Solomon always said, "I'm gonna write you up from day one."

P.M. had to pick up M.L. for the ski trip and he was still asleep.

F.Y. said XX "R____, man, give me some meat!", when we worked on the float.

Gene T. shouted out in lunch that he was not going out with F.Y. so R.D. and A.W. asked her out.

Prob class had deja-vu and the annual orange passing contest.

Guidance lost our transcripts and yet swore they'd been sent.

Koba didn't pay up after we beat him in Flub-Pub.

It rained on Homecoming.

Mary didn't win EVERYTHING.

Craig K. threw up all over himself.

Gill wasn't covered with chalk dust.

B.V. got caught cheating.

Mrs. S. wanted to "bang" J.C.

Graduation was on a Monday.

Koba Man — The Adventures of Stanky.

Calc finished a test in one period.

Kiki drank a whole can and didn't pass out.

Lisa H. didn't grub.

Mary M. was on time.

Sue K. weighed at least 95 lbs.

Trish flew over the fence rather than climb it.

Sue and Lisa were best friends.

Sharon M. passed out in a snow bank.

Doug D. went to the prom with an 8th grader.

Craig and Kathy weren't fighting.

an editor's note . . .

I can remember back to Freshman Orientation. It was then that they told us — "The things you do here will follow you throughout the rest of your life."

They meant, of course, in terms of grades, records, and behavior. But as well as these, there are many intangibles which will forever be with us — and these are memories. Memories of first loves, the gaining of new friendships, and the loss of old ones. And even sometimes the tragic death of a dear friend in an automobile accident.

But we have pulled through these together resulting in a spirit of comradeship grown from having had the same experiences. For in these four short years, we have grown up together. We entered in as dependent, anxious children, and now we are leaving as young adults. Young adults with the same anxieties about entering a new world as we once had entering a new high school.

We will go our separate ways from here keeping in touch with some, breaking our bonds with others. But always we will reflect back on these years. When we are at low points in our future lives, we will wish to relive our simple high school past. When we are at high points, we will wish that all our old friends could see us. And we will look back into this very book, a bound and printed bed for our aging memories where we tucked away four years of our lives.

But we must remember that it is indeed a new world into which we are entering. Though we may have been a beauty queen in high school, the world will not bend over backwards for us. And though we may have been a football captain, or a cheerleader, or a club president, the same holds true. We must push these achievements aside for the time being as we search for new and better ones. But we must also never forget them — we must take them out from time to time to refresh our memories of our four years here. And yet as we look back, we must not fail to look forward. We must bring something besides old stories to our reunions.

HALLOWEEN

Clockwise from Above: Kluck the Clown falls prey to the Black Death in 1st period. Ruthy in her housedress. Mr. Leonard meets his match. (We weren't sure we could fit them both into the picture.) The National Honor Society entertained the sick children at Freehold Area Hospital on Halloween. Sister Claire, Dawn the Pirate, Dr. Dock, and (ooh la la!) Sharon the French maid pose after the Senior Assembly. Mrs. Pettingil and the crazy underclassmen on Halloween.

POWDER PUFF

This was the second time that a Powder Puff football game was held at Freehold Boro High School. Mr. Kuhnert and Mrs. Greenstein coached the Juniors whereas Miss Mills and Mr. Lanzalotto coached the Senior girls. The Seniors were victorious over their Junior counterparts by an embarrassingly large margin. As always, spirited males from both classes cheered on the female football players.

Says Mrs. Greenstein on her coaching, "It was a lot of fun. It was my first time doing it and I think Powder Puff football is a great way to get girls more involved in sports that ordinarily they wouldn't. However, I'm not sure that if given the chance, I would want to coach again."

SPIRIT WEEK

Above: Meredith and Paul on Hats and Shades Day. Right: Becky Moffit, one of the six queens to become a semi-finalist, hesitates on a pivotal question during her queen interview.

It is difficult to describe the intense feeling of closeness felt by all at Freehold Boro during Spirit Week. The Student Council decided on certain days on which students could demonstrate their spirit. Such days were Concert T-Shirt Day, Hats and Shades, And Dress-Up Days, all of which went over rather well.

But that week was also one of massive preparation. During that time, active students were doing behind the scenes work for that much awaited event — Saturday, November 16th's Homecoming Day.

Chrissy the Skier, with a sparkle in her eye, gets a good grip on Jon the Bag Lady.

SUCCESSFUL SENIOR SALE

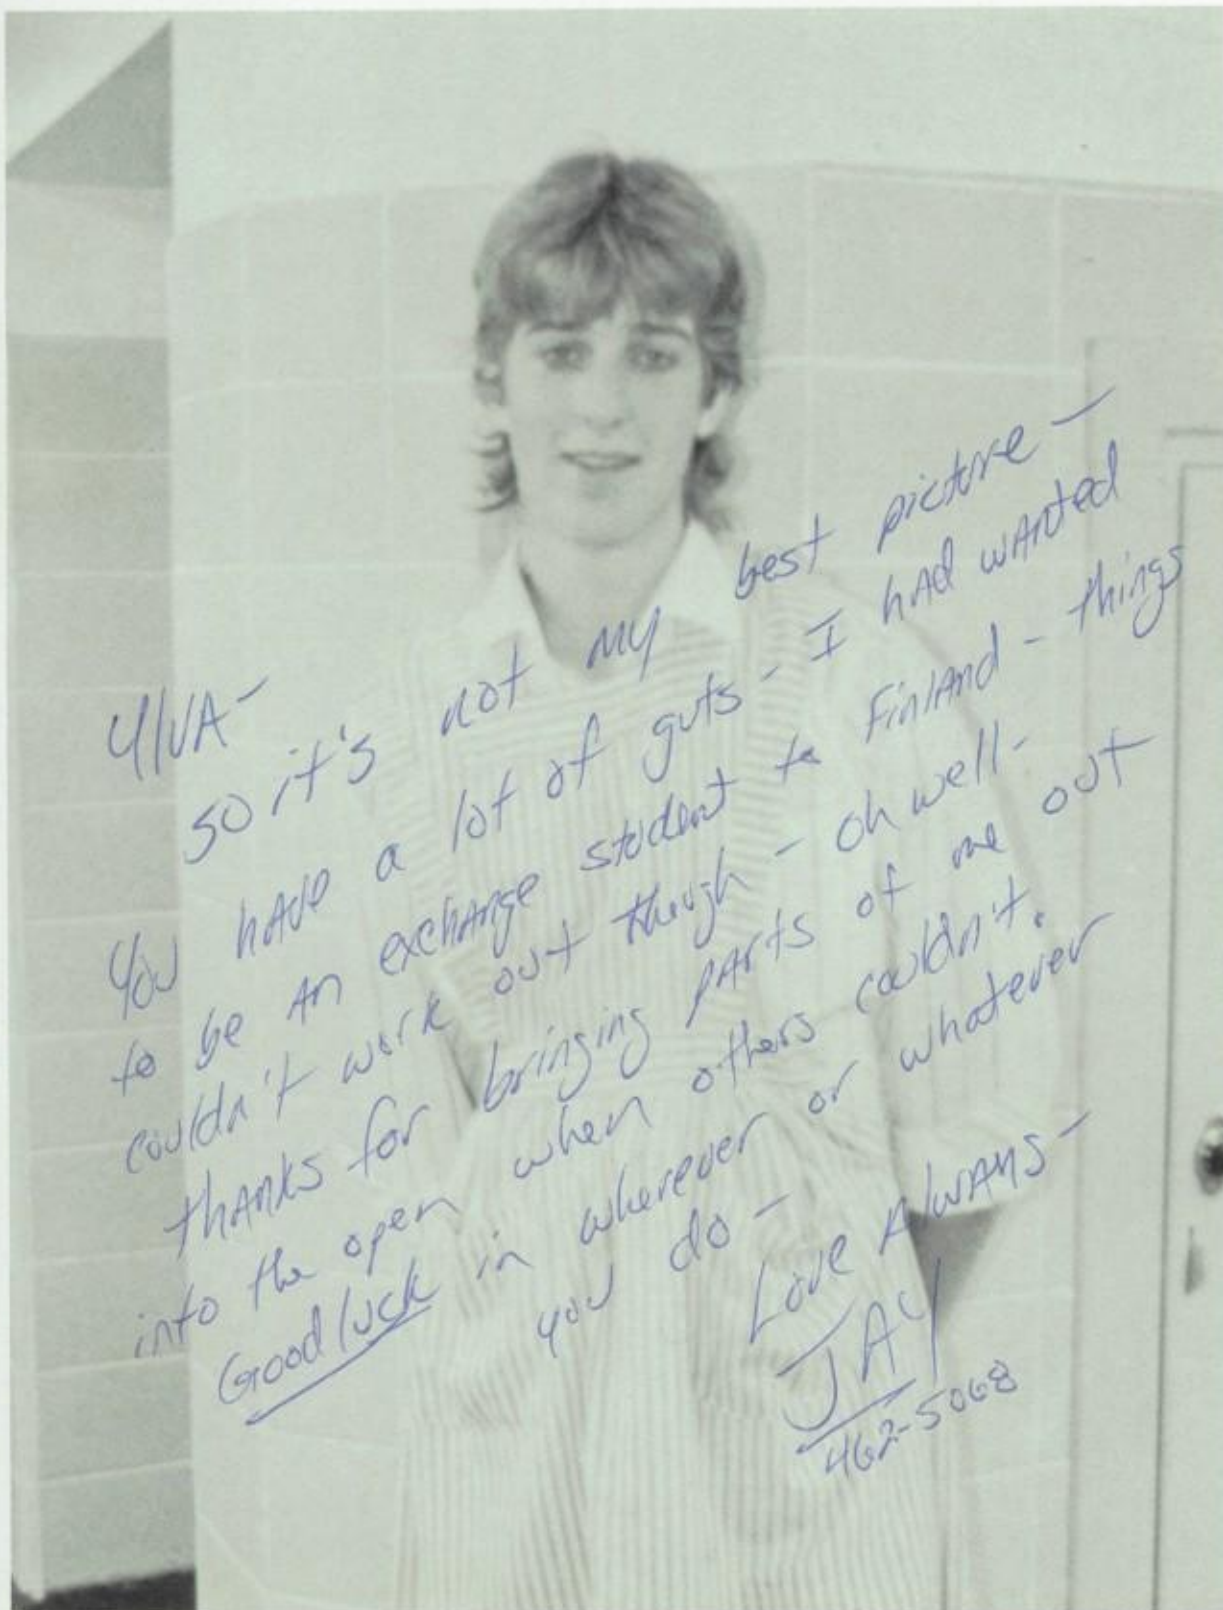

So many students participated in the early November Senior For Hire Auction that it lasted much longer than was expected. Mr. Moses, the auctioneer, added a humorous feeling to the event as he continually cracked on the auctionees.

All those auctioned participated in the required skits which ranged from Mike Petrula's '50's singing to the exchange students' performance of a French Duck Dance. A most interesting skit was that done by Peter Ehlin's group, a recreation of natives paddling to the Hawaii 5-0 theme song. Says Pete, "We were doing it at a party one day, and we figured everyone would get a big kick out of it at the Senior For Hire." Bidding was both high and low, the high bids often produced by shill Lynell Johnson. The highest price, $51, was paid for Jon Leidersdorff and Al Kahway by Amy Goldinger and her Freshmen friends.

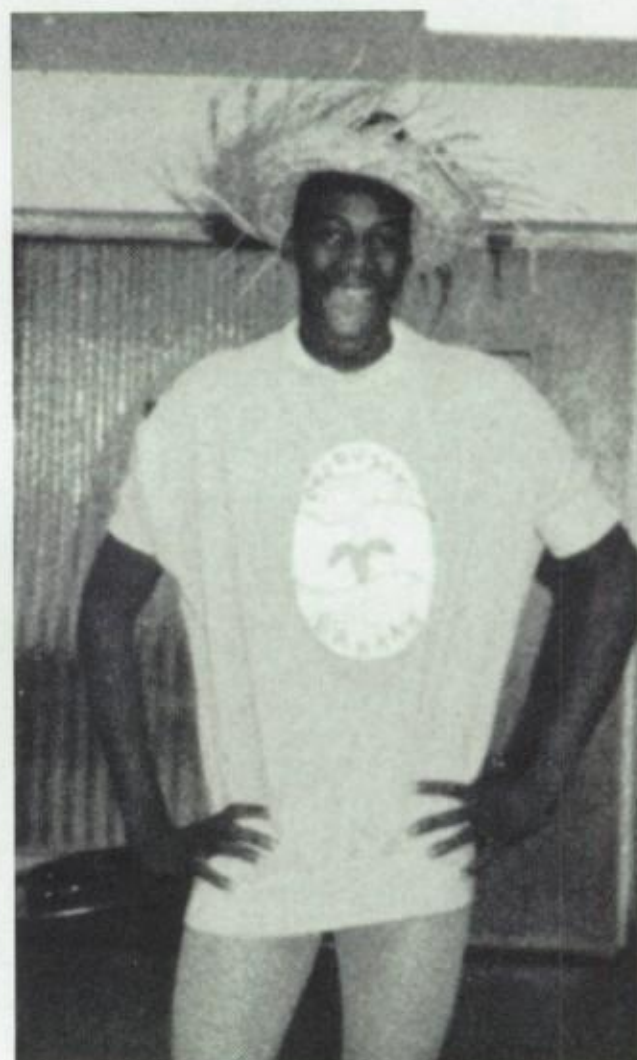

On pay up day, everyone was very creative, including Jeff Hack who was a toaster; and Pam McCulloch, a dog complete with a leash and collar.

Michelle Lilley, who was in charge of the Auction, is happy that it was such a success but is saddened by the fact that not everyone has as of yet fully paid for their purchases.

HOMECOMING

Far Right: The Float Committee busy working on the train station. Right: Tricia shows off her artistic talent as she paints the Central Jersey Bank. Below: The Queens, considered the most beautiful young women of FHS, proudly represent their organizations.

"This is going to be the greatest homecoming ever!" said Chrissy Dock, Student Council President who was in charge of the proceedings. Planning began during meetings in which various committees were formed. Michelle Lilley was placed in charge of Spirit Week; Michael Luongo, the float, and Karen Corcoran, dance decorations.

Work first began on the float, the theme being 'Old Freshold'. It was labored upon mainly by Chrissy Dock, Michael Luongo, and Linda Rockmaker who often stayed in the school until midnight, including on Fridays and Saturdays.

There was a new twist to this year's Homecoming. Rather than holding the coronation the night before the game, it was held during the game's halftime. However, that Saturday morning, a rainstorm cancelled the parade and turned the football field into a mud pool. Miss Sophomore Tracy Lind commented, "I'm glad I could represent my class at Homecoming even though it did cost me a pair of shoes."

During the festivities, Sharon Clark was awarded the First Runner-up Title, Chrissy Dock became Miss Congeniality, and Mary Maniscalco gained the title of Miss FHS. The football team went on to beat the Marlboro Mustangs 22-0.

Ms. Grebelja, Council Advisor remarked, "Everything went well. It was the first time I didn't get a headache because this year people helped."

Left: The six semi-finalists, only one of whom will receive the coveted Miss FHS title, and their escorts stand in the rain. Below: Even that Saturday's miserable rainstorm couldn't dampen the spirit of Boro students.

Nearly the entire school turned out for this year's Homecoming Dance which was completely successful in terms of both finances and school spirit.

Dozens of students came after the Homecoming Game to help decorate the gym. This involved the use of hundreds of square feet of paper, gallons of paint, and thousands of balloons. The entire custodial staff was helpful in this process, often loaning the students ladders and other equipment. The theme of this year's dance was "West Side Story — New York City Skyscrapers, the art directors being Tony Slaughter and Joy Bolton. The idea behind the theme was to transform the gym into something giving the image of a concrete and steel jungle. This was the first time in recent years that a dance was held so successfully at the Boro. There was no problem with attendance, student behavior, fighting, or musical tastes which are the usual barriers to Boro dances. Florence Ybasco, Miss Log and a semi-finalist commented, "I'm glad there was a Homecoming Dance this year. It seemed to bring the whole school closer together."

Crissy Dock, who was in charge of all of the Homecoming activities said, "That was the starting point for this whole year. Everything depended on how that dance went. Since it was so successful, now we can do more things."

SENIOR JOBS COME IN HANDY

"Can't stay for detention today, I've got to go to work after school!"

Sure, it's a constant excuse, but also a most viable one. Without jobs, it would be next to impossible for most Seniors to pay for all the things which they hold so dear — cars (and gas), clothes, liquid necessities, class trips, the prom, and of course, the BIG DATE.

Jobs are an integral part of a student's life. In fact, if the job isn't so bad, the workplace can become a social meeting center secondary only to the school. This can be especially true if one's co-workers are also one's classmates. Shown here is just a sampling of the various types of jobs held by Freehold High School Seniors.

Parents go "back to school" at Freehold

On the evening of September 19, 1985, several hundred parents attended Freehold High School's Back-to-school Night. This traditional event is designed to increase parental awareness of how the school functions, and to allow parents to meet the teachers of their children for an explanation of class routine and materials. During the evening, parents followed the schedule of their youngsters for abbreviated class periods. During these sessions, teachers explained instructional methods and materials, helping to increase understanding between school and home. As always, National Honor Society students guided lost parents through the maze of hallways.

Because of the enlightened leadership of a dedicated faculty, and the talents of Freehold Boro students, many honors have been bestowed on Freehold High School over the past few years. Boro students have excelled especially in math and business programs consistently bringing home district and area awards. Additionally, Freehold has always ranked high in scholarship funds granted to graduates, a trend which continued in the 1985-86 school year.

Medical Sciences program flourishes at F.H.S.

During the 1984-85 school year, the Medical Sciences Learning Center was initiated at Freehold High School under the direction of Mrs. Marlene Caruso. The center offers qualified District students a full year program in medical and natural sciences. To qualify for the program, students must place in the top ten per cent of their class, pass an admissions review, have a demonstrated interest in science and provide teacher recommendations. The program of study focuses on enriched and accelerated content in all academic areas. Presently, the program involves three grade levels — ninth through eleventh. Courses of study for these high achievers include, Med Sci Lab, Biology, Chemistry, Biochemistry/Cell Physiology, Physics and Anatomy, Genetics, Research, and numerous advanced Math classes. Teachers involved in the program are Mrs. Vigo, Mr. Kuhnert, Mrs. Balzer, Mr. Zerby, Mr. Vona, Mr. Bryck, Mr. DeValue. The Medical Sciences program will provide a big advantage for those students seeking higher education and eventual careers in fields related to Medical Sciences. There are currently forty-nine students enrolled in the program.

On three separate nights during the school year, parents were able to schedule conferences with teachers. The purpose of these meetings was to provide an assessment of student progress, identify weaknesses and strengths, and plan methods to improve performances or maintain excellence. These conferences benefit both parents and teachers because of the communication which takes place. The ultimate winner, however, is the individual student, who benefits from the motivation that comes out of these sessions.

Students hear report on Apartheid

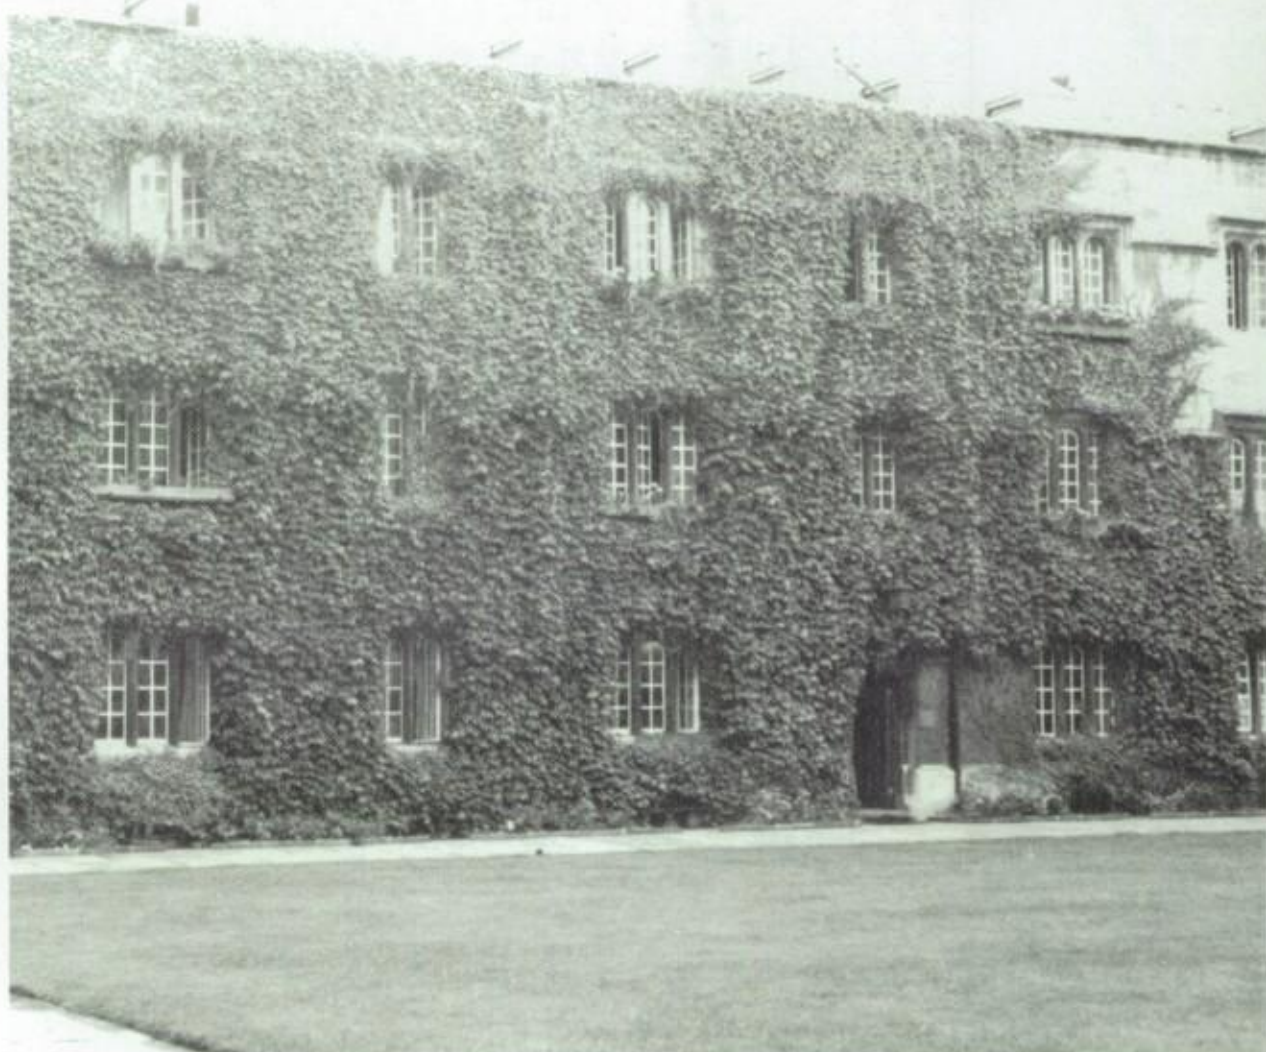

On October 24, 1985, Mr. Andries Oosthuizen, local playwright and political refugee from South Africa, spoke to Freehold students about the plight of South Africa under the racial segregation policy called apartheid. Mr. Oosthuizen, born and raised in South Africa, became a critic of the government there and fled to the safety of the United States. Students heard vivid examples of the extreme measures taken in South Africa to insure separateness; a black woman in labor refused admission to a "white" hospital, blacks assaulted by whites who could not be prosecuted, and families separated when caught outside after curfew. Many students developed a deeper appreciation for the complexities of this timely topic as a result of "Andy's" presentation.

Mrs. Moses has been very active in graduate programs, having studied at Princeton and Oxford. Shown here are scenes of Oxford University where Mrs. Moses studied British Literature in the summer of 1985.

Mrs. Moses Spends Summer At Oxford University

Mrs. Mary Alice Moses, English teacher at Freehold High School, spent six weeks prior to the opening of school in 1985 attending graduate school at Oxford University in London. She received a fellowship from the National Endowment for the humanities to study 19th and 20th century British literature. Mrs. Moses attended daily lectures, regular tutorials, and submitted original research as a part of the graduate program.

Commenting on the value of the program, Mrs. Moses stressed the exchange of ideas between the participants. "We all left after six weeks with a better understanding and a heightened sensitivity for each other and each other's cultures. It's this immeasurable quality that made the Oxford experience so special for all of us who participated in it," she said.

The teachers at Freehold Boro epitomize the best of their profession. Their dedication goes beyond the challenges of the classroom and into the area of co-curricular activities. Teachers wear many hats — instructor, psychologist, friend, confidant and disciplinarian — in the classroom alone. Teachers also function as coaches, advisors and directors to the many activities offered at the high school. Without the dedication of those who serve in these capacities, it would not be possible to have these enjoyable pursuits.

In an effort to upgrade the educational process in the state, the New Jersey Department of Education has developed the High School Proficiency Test to determine whether high school seniors are prepared to graduate. The test is reportedly more difficult than the Minimum Basic Skills test which has been used in the best to measure levels of achievement. Seniors must pass the new test in order to graduate, and many teachers and administrators are worried that the dropout rate might rise as a result. Accordingly, a strong effort has been made to implement programs which might help those who have difficulty with standardized tests. At Freehold Boro, the Basic Skills program is designed to raise levels of skill in math and reading. Time will tell if the new test is to be considered a reliable one.

Career Night, a Guidance success

The traditional Career Night at Freehold has grown bigger each year. The 1985 Career night saw dozens of representatives from colleges, technical schools and businesses visit Freehold High School to explain their offerings to interested students and parents. According to Lillie Hendry, Guidance Supervisor, the country fair approach is successful because students get to see and talk to as many representatives as they wish in a short period of time. In many cases, this has helped facilitate the decision-making process for junior and senior students.

Below: Coach Earl Ownes led the Colonials to a 10-1 record and into the State Finals against Somerville. Right: The Freehold sideline reacts to the winning score in the Lacey game. Tony Richardson's two point conversation run after a Joe Henderson touchdown at 0:17 of the fourth quarter, capped a furious Freehold rally, which saw the Colonials recover from a 21-6 deficit.

FOOTBALL Returns To "Glory Days"

Few people doubted the potential of the 1985 varsity gridders, but it was a great deal more than potential that earned the "Fightin' Colonials" an undefeated record in "C" South, a berth in the State Playoffs, an outpouring of fan support and a 10-1 overall record. What made the season even more special was the contribution made by every player — not just the overwhelming talent of a few individuals.

Led by a nucleus of boisterous Boro soccer players, the Colonials' supporters let the team know just how they felt; and in return, they were given something to look forward to each week. The season began on a positive note with a 12-6 win over Asbury Park, a team which Freehold had not beaten in decades. Next came a victory over Allentown, followed by a key, comeback win over Lacey Township. Freehold ripped through the remaining regular season schedule, defeating Shore, the defending "C" South champion, by a score of 20-0. Boro wrapped up its title with wins over outmatched Point Beach and Manchester squads.

Senior Joe Henderson keyed the successful Freehold offense in its drive to the championship. Henderson racked up more than 1800 yards rushing and scored a total of 140 points. Duke Davis and Calvin Keys complimented Henderson in the backfield, while Tony Richardson called the signals. The line was led by seniors Gerard Randolph, Craig Daum, Chris Cullen and Scott Conover. Freehold's receivers were Rusty Mayes, Greg Hyman, Joe Diorio and Jeff Hack.

Freehold's "Shaved Tiger" defense finished the season as the number one unit in the entire Shore Conference. Vince Lombardi Award winner Scott Conover anchored the line, while Lynell "Train" Johnson, Scott Applegate and Carl Irby excelled at linebacker. The defensive secondary, the best Freehold has ever had, consisted of Jerome Smith, Duke Davis, Rusty Mayes and Greg Hyman. Gerard Randolph made a tremendous contribution to the defense, and his season-ending injury hurt Freehold's chances in the State final.

Although Freehold's chances for an undefeated season and State title fell in the closing moments of the Somerville game, the team had no reason to feel anything but pride in the tremendous accomplishments of the 1985 season.

SOCCER Shoots for next season

The 1985 Varsity Soccer team compiled a record which in many programs would be considered enviable. At Freehold, however, the high standards set by past teams made 9-6-1 seem disappointing. Records, of course, do not tell the story of an entire season, and the 1985 campaign had some memorable moments. There were two big matches with eventual champion Lacey, in which the Colonials played well but lost. Certain veteran players also enjoyed banner years, especially Tim Coman and Rich Daesener. Tim was selected All-District, All-County and All-Conference first team. Rich made All-District, All-County, All-Conference and All-State second team. These two players, along with Andy Feldman and Jon Leidersdorff were the key ingredients on what became known as a hustling, aggressive unit.

The highlight of 1985 for the Boro soccer program was the trip to Scotland in the month of August. Freehold competed in several tournaments in Scotland under the name of the Freehold Boro Soccer Club and surprised many of the European teams with their inspired play. Many of the players felt that they were representing more than just their school on this trip. They saw themselves as ambassadors of goodwill for their country as well. Many of the younger players gained invaluable international experience on the trip which will pay huge dividends to the team within the next few years. Coach Heshy Moses is confident that this factor will lead the Boro back to its accustomed position among the elite teams of the Shore Conference.

Girl Harriers win First Championship

This year's Girls' Cross Country team completed its most successful season in the history of Freehold High School. The girls captured their first Shore Conference Championship by remaining undefeated (7-0) in division meets. Paula Arcoleo and Kate Mottram teamed up in the front of the pack to cop the top spots in the 3.1 mile races. Kate and Paula were closely followed by their teammates Amy Stevenson, Chrissy Dock, Deana Piathowski, Michelle Lilley, and Dawn Cargiulo. Coach Rafter attributed the teams tremendous success to the outstanding leadership dedication, and team spirit that was inspired by captains Chrissy and Michelle. Rounding out this Championship squad of harriers were Kim Knice, Rachel Clayton, Karen O'Brien, Sue Livingston, Deanna Vang, Chris McLean, Julie Simon, Donna Miller, and Liz Tully.

Boy's X-Country Runs With Young Team

The Boys Cross Country Team made great strides in 1985. Led by Ron Riehl, Leteef Jackson, Doug Moini and John Valentine, Coach Jim Gill's squad worked very hard every day to improve times. The club finished with a 2-7 meet record, but Coach Gill felt the runners showed a lot of courage and dedication in what must be the most individual demanding sport. Ten of the fourteen runners were underclassmen, indicating that more dual meet success might come within the next few years. Those runners who compete in winter and spring track will undoubtedly be totally prepared for next year.

Girl's Tennis Wins C South Title

In 1985 several years of patience and hard work finally paid off for the Girl's Tennis Team as they won their first conference title. Led by seniors Mary McKim, Lisa Hemphill, Sharon Clark, Tricia McCawley and Beth Grinevetsky, Freehold nailed down a 10-0 conference record and went 14-2 overall. Contributing to the Colonial success were underclassmen Lynn Rosenberger, Heather Smith, Ruth Brokstein, Michelle Hirshfield and Kyra Tehve. Freehold locked up the C South title by sweeping its season series against Shore and Point Beach. Those two teams proved to be the toughest competition as the Boro breezed against the other C South foes. Coach Ruth Schwimer pointed to the girl's hard work and dedication as being key factors in the Colonial's success.

Another Championship Season For Basketball

Winning has become synonymous with Freehold Boro basketball over the past fifteen years, and the 1985-86 team may just have been the best of a long line of great teams. Coach Jack Kuhnert's cagers stormed through the regular season with an undefeated record, another holiday tourney title, and the C South Championship. The Colonials easily qualified for the Shore Tournament making the semi-finals before falling to Asbury Park. Led by seniors Lee Perry, Eric Hutcherson, Duke Davis, Scott Conover, Jerome Smith and Rusty Mayes, the Freehold squad easily qualified as the top seed in the Central Jersey Tournament. A highlight of the season was the state win over Somerville giving Freehold a measure of revenge for the tough football loss. Freehold's hoop success is expected to continue as the Frosh and JV teams had excellent records.

Strong board play and aggressive defense were the keys to Freehold's second consecutive C South title. Eric Hutcherson and Rusty Mayes led an improved perimeter game for the Boro.

The strong inside play of Scott Conover and Lee Perry caused anguish for Freehold's opponents in 1985-86. Perry is expected to follow brother Tim to a major college power.

Varsity Girls Regain Winning Ways

The 1985-86 Colonials Girl's Basketball Team paid their dues together. Playing as underclassmen for four years, the girls weathered some tough seasons in terms of wins and losses. This year, the Colonials' dedication and patience paid off with a fine 12-8 campaign. Freehold was in the thick of the C South race for most of the season finally falling to eventual champion Manchester. Coach Colleen Rafter pointed to the inspired play of Paula Arcoleo and Diane Matthews as keys to the turnaround. Also, Sue Spreen, Darlene Flagg, LaFonda Hickman and Kim Ousley made outstanding contributions to the Freehold success story. Arcoleo was the team's playmaker while Matthews and Hickman were counted on for scoring. Spreen and Flagg controlled the boards for the Colonials while Ousley contributed her balanced skills to both offense and defense. The graduation of four of Freehold's five starters leaves ample opportunity for members of this year's JV squad, coached by Karen Mills, to make an impact on the varsity next year. Hopefully, the experience these girls gained on the JV level will serve them well as they attempt to continue the winning ways.

Young Matmen Exceed Expectations

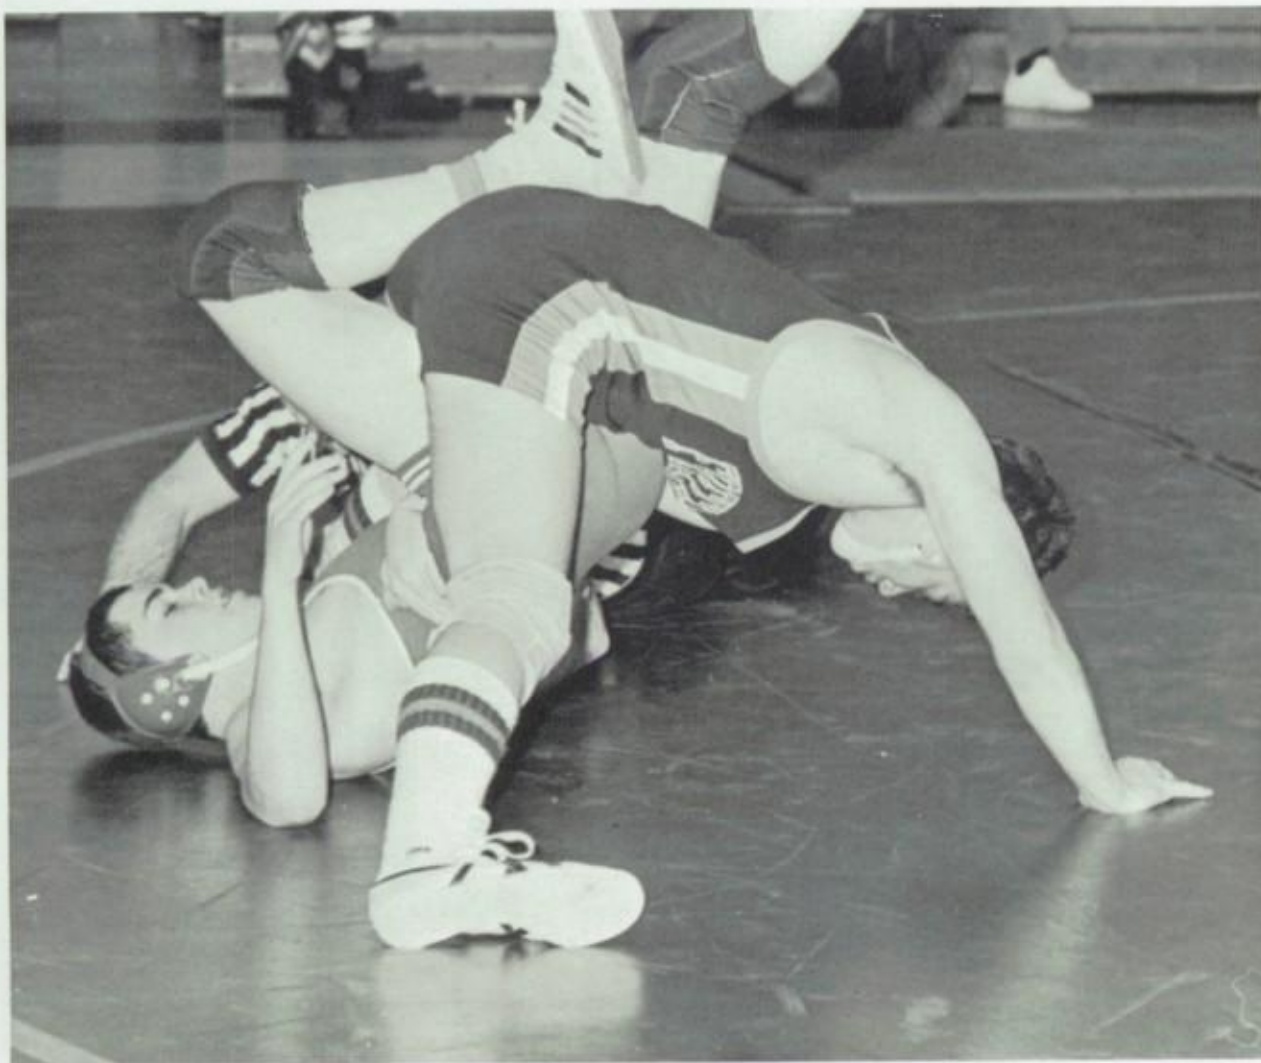

The 1985-86 Freehold High School Wrestling Team far surpassed preseason predictions by posting a 6-6-1 record. The starting varsity lineup consisted of only one senior, six juniors and five sophomores. Despite the lack of varsity experience and the apparent youth movement, these young men rallied together, both physically and emotionally, to enjoy a fine season and lay groundwork for what will hopefully be a tremendous season next year.

While a third-place finish and a 2-2-1 record in C South competition are not the most impressive of wrestling statistics, this was a vast improvement over last year's dismal finish. The young Colonials wrestled admirable against Shore powers Pinelands and Lacey while staging great comebacks in a victory over Monmouth and a tie against Allentown.

Winter Track Makes Successful Debut

The 1985-86 Indoor Track Team enjoyed its first season as an officially recognized sport. Mr. Pete Erndl, head coach, was particularly pleased with the large, diverse turnout. There were accomplished athletes working along with newcomers and seasoned veterans, such as Greg Hyman and Joe Henderson working hard beside freshman distance runners. The highlight of the indoor season came with Joe Henderson's state championship in the 55 meters. Coach Erndl looks forward to the development of some of the young, distance runners in the outdoor season, and is very encouraged by their progress this winter.

During the summer of 1985, our school's varsity soccer team was invited to play in the Dunbarton Tournament which is an event partaken by some of the best teams on the British Isles. Ours was the only American team ever invited.

Our Team took off from Kennedy Airport in New York and landed first in Prestwick and went to Langbank where they stayed in a youth hostelry. There, they saw several exhibition matches and some professional games.

Afterwards, it was on to Glasgow where they went sightseeing and visited castles. It was here that the Tournament was held. In all, the team played 8 games, winning one of them. They received an award for their participation in the event.

During an exclusive interview with the LOG, Seniors Jon Leiderdorff and Rich Daesener told us a little about their unique trip.

"It was the greatest experience in my life," said Rich, "because of the people, the beautiful scenery and the way I got along with the other people on the trip."

"We were like brothers, we were all so close on the trip," added Jon noting the camaradery between the players when competing in a new environment.

"We were playing against a much more skilled team. We were down 2-1, and then we came back and tied. Our intensity level was higher than it had ever been, and everyone played with so much heart that we finally won, it was a natural high," said Rich on their winning game. One of the problems playing against the European Teams was that they played their game more roughly than the Americans and that our team was not used to playing on ashen fields. One difference Jon noted during the 14-day trip was the lightness in skin tone of the Scottish in comparison to the Americans. Those same Scottish people nicknamed our team 'the doughboys' in reference to World War I U.S. troops.

In closing, Mr. Moses had this to say, "It was a combination of a lot of hard work. I think the kids got a lot out of it. Just getting out to another country is a great cultural experience, and I got to know my players a lot better in the process."

Best Sports Year Ever?

In a school whose history goes back to the 1920's, verifying claims to athletic records can be very difficult. One can suppose, however, that considering the number of interscholastic sports presently being offered that the 1985-86 Freehold teams won a record number of games and championships.

Everything seemed to fall into place for the Colonials this year beginning with the first football championship in more than thirty years. The Freehold gridders, led by Joe Henderson and a highly talented group of seniors, compiled a 10-1 record, the best in recent memory. The disappointing last second loss to Somerville in the state finals will soon fade from memory as Freehold fans savor the accomplishments of 1985.

Also in the fall, the girls tennis and cross country teams garnered league titles, firsts for both programs. The soccer team, perennial winners, produced another successful season on the heels of their trip to Scotland. The soccer team made another great contribution to Freehold athletics as many of its members were at the core of a group of loud supporters of the football and basketball teams.

Freehold's success was not limited to fall sports. As the weather got cold, the sports action continued to get hot with the Boys Basketball Team leading the way. Led by Lee Perry, the Colonial cagers reeled off twenty straight victories, a record, before falling to Asbury Park in the Conference semi-finals. Freehold also won the C South Championship. The girls team did their share to contribute to the winning ways, running to a 12-8 record, while Kevin Crippen, a senior heavyweight, wrestled his way to the state regionals after helping the Colonials to a respectable dual meet season.

As spring came around, the boys track team, girls soccer team, softball team and baseball team were all confident of producing winning teams adding to the Freehold glow in 1985-86.

UNDERCLASSMEN

Ylva, you are a wonderful person. I am extremely glad that I got to know you, and that I had a chance to spend time with you. I enjoy your company I just wish we spent more time together. I'm going to miss you a great deal, please can we try and see each other again. I know we will keep in touch. I wish you the very best in life and I hope you take advantage of all that life has to offer you. Enjoy your life. I really respect you. I would never have been able to do what you have done by coming here alone. Good luck and best wishes always. Love,

Annette

P.S. I will never forget the time you fed me ice cream while I was driving!

Dear Ylva,
I hoped you liked it here. You are such a sweet person. I hope you come back for a visit. I am so glad we had the chance to spend time together. Maybe you can come to visit me a while. I'm at college what a party it will be!

The Freshmen started the year off with nothing, but by Christmas had nearly $3200.00 in their treasury, finishing off all of their fund raising needs. Most of this was due to their amazingly capable advisor, Elaine Shapow, who feels that Freshman year is the best time to start off helping the kids because at that young age they do not feel self conscious when selling their products, which this year were cookies and jewelry.

The Freshman class was represented at Homecoming by Lisa Vilanueva. During Spirit Week, the Freshman class decorated their hall with an all sports theme. The floor of the hall itself was decorated as a football field grid. The concept was developed by Mrs. Shapow, Scott Lilley, and Lynette Astuto.

The Sophomore Class started the 1985-86 school year off with over $2000.00. Their first fund raiser was a successful bake sale held during the Christmas holidays at Shop Rite.

The Sophomore Class, which is advised by Stanley Parker, was represented at Homecoming by Tracy Lind who was escorted onto the field by Chris Iverson.

The major problem with Class of '88, commented President Tricia Federici, is the lack of spirit present in its members. In fact, it was not until November that the Sophomores had any officers or representatives at all.

This year, the Juniors started off in September with only $68.00 in their treasury. This severe situation was quickly remedied by the Class of '87 under the direction of Stan Koba through several fund raising plans such as selling M&M's outside of school as well as selling Boro T-shirts and sweats.

The Junior Class was represented at Homecoming by Cathy Abbott who was escorted by Senior Peter Ehlin. Their halls were decorated during Spirit Week with a "Koba's Junior Circus" theme.

Commenting on the success of this Spring's Half Brother's concert, Stan Koba said, "Spirit is so strong amongst a few that if you want to do something, it'll get done."

ORGANIZATIONS

Ylva,
Well, the year is finally over.
I can't believe it. I'm really glad that we became such good friends. You're really, really sweet - stay that way. I'm going to miss you so much when you leave. Give me your address so that we can keep in touch. I wish you the Best of luck in the future and I hope all of your wishes come true. I hope that you succeed in EVERYTHING

you do in life.
I wish I didn't have to say good-bye, you're too good of a friend. If you ever come to America be sure to visit me. You're always welcomed at my house. And whatever you do, just remember all the friends

you now have in our Country.

Love ya,
your friend forever,

THE LOG

Since we're the guys who put it all together, we decided we deserve to be the first organization portrayed in this section.

We hope you think this is the best yearbook ever. We do. It's loaded with candids and copy on just about everything that's gone on in this school since it opened in September and from even before then.

An attempt was made this year to add a journalistic touch to these pages. We often asked you, the readers, to give us quotes or tell us your own feelings about certain scholastic events in order to make this yearbook a more personal item to you.

The LOG Staff was relatively small this year, as it usually is, but we all pulled together, each one doing his own little part. Our advisor, Mr. Charles Welsh feels, "This has been the most industrious group of people I've worked with on the yearbook. The result is the finest book we've ever put out." We tried our best to make this yearbook as inclusive and accurate as possible, and any mistakes are due to our early March deadline. It is also for this reason that we can not include material on the Prom and Spring sports. In spite of this, we hope you enjoy this yearbook and continue to look back on our high school lives with it years into the future.

SPIRIT

The Spirit is the Freehold High School's newspaper and journalistic society. It is advised by Mr. Dague and Mary Maniscalco has been its Managing Editor for the past two years. The purpose of the paper is to keep students informed about news which affects teens in general and those of FHS in particular. Those on the staff do their best to keep FHS students aware of what's going on in our school's sports fields, its campus, and its district.

The paper is, however, beset by financial woes and as a result, there were only four issues released this year. In order to combat this problem, Doug Moini decided to sell Boro sweatpants during the school's lunch periods.

Mary Maniscalco commented on the problem, "One of the problems was a lack of funds. It was pretty discouraging to find that out at the beginning of the year. We tried to make up for our small number of issues by improving the quality of our paper."

The Dramatic Arts Club is for all students interested in theatre and the Thespians is an organization intended for all those students who have been in three or more play productions. Both of these organizations are supervised by Joseph Reilly.

During the Fall, the DAC presented "You Can't Take It With You", a light comedy about a zany family and its daughter's wedding plans. During the Spring, "Fiddler On The Roof" was the main attraction, a tale of Jewish peasants living in White Russia before the Revolution.

Senior Cindy Perine, a member of both DAC and the Thespians had this to say, "It's great experience working with other people on stage. You learn more about yourself as well as other people."

STUDENT COUNCIL

During the 1985-86 year, the Student Council played a tremendous role in getting things done at FHS.

In November, the Council, with the aid of Advisor Ms. Grbelja, made all of the Homecoming arrangements. These included breaking tradition by having the Coronation at the game's halftime and then holding a successful dance that evening. This new plan was arrived at by Karen Corcoran, and this way athletes could be both escorts and attend a dance.

Prior to Homecoming and working closely with the Senior class and its advisor, Mr. MacChesney, the Council also planned Spirit Week which went over well because of the enthusiasm already present at FHS. During March, with the help of Senior Doug Dale, the council dabbled in computer dating brokerage. For only one dollar, students could find out who their most compatible partners in the school were.

Pam McCulloch, the Council's Vice-President, had this to say, "It was pretty easy to get things done through the Student Council. There was a big revitalization in school spirit this year, and I'm happy to say that the Student Council was honored to be a part of it."

HEALTH CAREERS CLUB

The Health Careers Club, co-advised by Mrs. Farrel and Mrs. Caruso, is a relatively new organization at FHS having been here only for the past four years. As can be seen from the picture, most of its members are Med-Techers.

The main purpose of this organization is to bring together students in the school who are interested in a medical career and to create an environment which will be conducive to further development of that interest. For instance, early in the year, a first aid squad held a demonstration of its equipment for the students. (shown above)

The Health Careers Club is appreciated by all the students and faculty at Freehold High School for another interesting reason besides its curriculum. Every Friday, it feeds us bagels and hot chocolate at a nominal rate as a fundraising project. The Health Careers Club was represented at Homecoming by Heather Smith, a Junior.

S.A.D.D., or Students Against Driving Drunk, is a new organization at FHS. In order to become a member, students must sign the S.A.D.D. contract which is a mutual agreement between students and parents that neither will drive under the influence of alcohol. Members must also demonstrate a desire to fight against drug and alcohol abuse and to help other students to do so.

S.A.D.D. is advised by both Mrs. Greenstein and Mr. Al Gunther. The organization has many sub-divisions, one of which is 'Helping Hands' whose purpose is to go to elementary schools and teach younger children the self-respect they will need to make intelligent decisions regarding alcohol when they become high school students. During January, with the Help of Storer Cablevision, S.A.D.D. created a video, "You Can Say No" about teens and substance abuse. The video idea was introduced by Jennifer Ackerman. During the video, key facts in the development of a substance abuser were discussed by the participatory students. Eric Hutcherson brought up the point that alcohol abuse first begins innocently with cigarette smoking. However, the group would also like to publicize the fact that not all students abuse alcohol. Says Andy Feldman, "If they're really your friends, you won't need a beer in your hand to have them accept you."

LINKS AND LIFE DISCUSSION

Below: Brenda Bockman, LINKS Counselor. Left: Mr. Stan the Man Koba conducts a life discussion group. Said Mr. Koba on the two-year old program, "I think it has brought a breath of fresh air to the building for the students."

LINKS is a new program at FHS and is run by Miss Bockman who counsels students who feel they may have a problem during her Wednesday visits to the school. The program is basically prevention, education, and intervention of chemical dependencies. She tries to teach students, faculty, and parents the signs of alcohol abuse so that they may be able to help loved ones in time. Other related programs such as AA, NA, and Ala-Teen are often incorporated.

"It is only through awareness that we can change," commented Miss Bockman on the fact that at least now we are realizing, rather than ignoring, the existence of the problem.

Life Discussion has been with us for the past two years and is run by both Mr. Koba and Mrs. Greenstein. The program was originally established totally for the benefit of the students. One of the original worries of the advisors was that there might be a problem with confidentiality as many of the topics discussed are of a personal nature.

Pam gets to the heart of the situation as Mrs. Greenstein and the other girls in 6/7 discussion look on with concerned interest.

FRENCH AND SPANISH HONOR SOCIETIES

The French Honor Society, or the FHS of FHS, has been with us for many years and is advised by Elaine Logan. The organization is for those students who have studied French for 3 or more years and have attained an average of at least a B+. During the Christmas season, they sold French pastries at the Holiday Bazaar and sold key chains at football games to raise money for their needs. They were represented at Homecoming by Dawn Cohen.

The Spanish Honor Society is a brand new organization at Freehold High School and has done relatively well in its first year. The organization sold candy to raise money to pay off its deficit which resulted from fees for their induction ceremony. Like the French Honor Society, it also sold pastries during the Holiday Bazaar. They were represented at Homecoming by Tracey Cancellieri.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

The National Honor Society is a select group of students chosen for their success both academically and activity wise.

During the Christmas Season, the group held a Holiday Bazaar which was extremely successful and the funds were used to create a scholarship fund. Says Mrs. Burke, Advisor, "We've accomplished a lot this year. We set up a scholarship fund, raised money for charities and even tutored fellow students."

MARCHING BAND

The Marching and Symphonic (also known as 'Concert') bands are advised by Mrs. Lettenmaier who is a new music teacher at Freehold High School.

The Marching Band helps to raise spirit at Freehold by entertaining fans at halftime during football games and by playing uplifting music during pep rallies. Had it not rained, the Marching Band would also have participated in this year's Homecoming Parade.

The Symphonic Band, many of whose members are also in the Marching Band, is very important to the school for it often performs the background music necessary during many of Mr. Reilly's plays. During the winter, they performed at the Winter Concert along with the choirs.

Choir, Chamber Choir and Jazz Ensemble are all organizations at Freehold High School for those who are musically inclined. Choir was represented at Homecoming by Laurie Cunningham. During the Christmas season, members from all three of these organizations participated in the Winter Concert at which Mrs. Lettenmaier conducted. The Choir also entertained at the Holiday Bazaar, singing in both the gym and the lunchrooms where the shoppers were.

JAZZ ENSEMBLE

The Silks, Drill Team and Rifles are important organizations. Not only do they provide us with entertainment during football halftimes, they help to increase the feeling of spirit present at Freehold High School by performing extravaganzas during season pep rallies.

The Debating Team is a brand new organization at Freehold High School and is advised by Mr. Kushner. The students involved will spend great lengths of time researching their debating topics which may range from pollution to politics. Craig Mazin, a sophomore in the club, finds it rewarding because it gives him a chance to express himself under pressure.

FOLIO

The Folio is the literary magazine of FHS, and it is advised by Joseph Reilly. It is an annual publication of student songs, poetry, short stories, and artwork. Every year there is a different theme to the magazine, and this year that theme is Art-Deco tying in with the current revival of that early twentieth century movement in design.

C.O.E.

D.E.C.A. stands for Cooperative Office Education. Students enrolled in the program are allowed to sign out at 11:05 to go to their jobs. Their D.E.C.A. grade is determined by the boss of that job who fills out a report card for them. During school, the students take classes geared to marketing and business. Eileen Carlson likes the program because, "I'm glad to be in DECA because I can get school credits and yet earn money at the same time." C.O.E. stands for Cooperative Office Education. Students in this program are placed in offices where they usually work a minimum of 15 hours a week. Jobs range from such places as the Monmouth County Prosecutors Office to several downtown lawyers and professionals.

Says Mrs. Schwimer, Advisor, "It gives students real life experience they can share in the classroom."

The group's President is Tracey Watkins and Treasurer, Sue Jeandron.

CHEF'S PREP

Chef's Prep is an organization which was developed for those students who are serious about becoming professional chefs. During the Christmas Season, the organization held a Gingerbread House Contest which was a delight to everyone in the school when the works were displayed on December 18th.

Marlo Davis, who plans to become a professional chef commented on his involvement in the program, "I like it a lot. I can cook now."

COMPUTERS TEAM I

This advanced computer team is, as of February, ranked 12th in the nation out of the 152 participating schools. The team is also ranked 2nd in the state and 1st in South Jersey. So far, Sam Maviglia and Stewart Hou have attained perfect scores and only twelve students across the nation have achieved that distinction.

The tests for the Computer Team are given in the school. It has two parts. The first is a written exam type test and the second part is where the students must actually write a program. Freehold has once again been invited to the National Championships which are held in Elizabethtown, Pennsylvania.

Left to Right: S. Maviglia, Mr. DeValue, R. Soloman, D. Tannenbaum, S. Hou, M. McCulloch, G. Tom, H. Kanner.

COMPUTERS TEAM II

The intermediate computer team has also done extremely well this year. As of February, it attained a rank of 15th in the nation and 2nd in New Jersey. Its top two students are Ellen Respler and Russ Engoran. Russ is one of only twenty students nationwide to have a perfect cumulative score.

Mr. DeValue, who advises both teams, says of the students' success and dedication, "The topics that are covered are from college level courses. They're doing a lot of work on their own to cover the topics."

MATH LEAGUE

The Math League is for those students at FHS who excel in mathematics and would like to use those skills on an extra-curricular basis.

As of February, The Math League was 1st place in the Shore Math League Tournament. In May, the League was treated to a banquet as reward for its hard work.

Mrs. Vigo, who advises the team, said, "This year we've had a lot of students participating and I'd like to see it continue."

First Row: M. McCulloch, Mrs. Vigo, M. Peritz. Second Row: D. Tannenbaum, S. Hou, M. Hymes, E. Respler, S. Director, A. Blackman. Third Row: H. Kanner, S. Maviglia, M. Farber, J. Esraleu. Not Shown: P. Sandoli, R. Sandoli, R. Patilla, J. Hou, T. Bennett, M. Hirschfield, D. Borgs.

First Row: J. Gruber, A. Freideman, J. Hou. Second Row: A. Blackman, A. Tobias, J. Esraleu, R. Nagarajan.

BIOLOGY TEAM

As of early March, the Biology Team ranked 4th in the state out of 115 schools. It is also 1st in the Shore Region. The Biology Team's students are all either Freshmen or Sophomores as the team is only for basic biology students. Mild-mannered biology teacher Kent Zerby commented on his team's success, "This was only their first year of competition and the results are outstanding."

CHEMISTRY TEAM

As of early March, the Chemistry Team, which is advised by Mrs. Balzer, is ranked 3rd in its district. According to Mrs. Balzer, before each meet, the team takes a qualifying test. Four students compete in each meet. The top two students from the last meet automatically compete in the next. The two other positions are determined by the qualifying test scores.

First Row: M. Hirschfield, M. McCulloch, D. Borgs. Second Row: P. Seidenburg, M. Cherbini, C. Mazin, Z. Wright, J. Horowitz.

PHYSICS TEAM

By February, the Physics Team attained a rank of 3rd in its division. For the third test, Freehold High School will be the host school.

Matt Hymes has received the highest scores on the tests so far.

In reference to future tests, Mrs. Ruth Soloman said, "Our team will do its very best!"

Congratulations to everyone for being the best!

I feel so sad writing this ~~message~~ it feels like ^{RESERVED} a permanent goodbye. It's very difficult. I'm sitting here in our class with ^{late} Marylene, Scott, Rachel, Rhel, McReilly & the wonderful outpaint trying to convey my feelings. I remember when we first met. at Sue's house in Marlboro. I was with muscle mark. from then on we started hanging out. we went out & had a blast! I always watched you you were so different and unique. I loved how you danced & painted & dressed. you are so talented. I guess I was jealous. you could be you. & I couldn't. Sometimes I felt inferior and worthless I kept comparing myself to you. when I should have been focusing my energies on me I worried too much. I really wanted to break free & you helped me help myself. By talking to me ^{and} with Pam & Glenn's help Yvonne! What can I say, and where can I start. This have been a hell of a great year. We all had our ups and downs. But I brought out it all, it have been a great year, I never will forget. You have ment a heck of alot to me this year. Who could, I ever have done without you. You probably feel that I sometimes followed you around a little to much. And we maybe went news, a couple on each other of times. But I never think we had a fight. I never really knew what you really deep inside felt. You are hard to figure out. But I think we really became great friends. And I ever never forget our good times. Remembes Simple Minds, John Cougar. football-games. my party (bedroom) your suprise-party made my life. The play. New York city dance-teria, all the parties. All the hm. sigarets. The cruising with Dave. Your birthday, halloween. and everything else I can't remember right now. Something who I think is really dum, is that I always was a kind of jealous of you. Sometimes I felt that we had a kind of race, against each - other. Something very sad.

I feel that we can trust each other. And I hope all will have many more talks before, we leave. I think you have a hell of a good personality, you always been very outgoing in my eyes. I'm sorry I came to you all the times I was down. But whatever it is you always have something smart to say. And it always made me feel better. What can I do and say, so you will understand how much you really mean to me. And I'm not to good to write it ->

A FINAL THOUGHT . . .

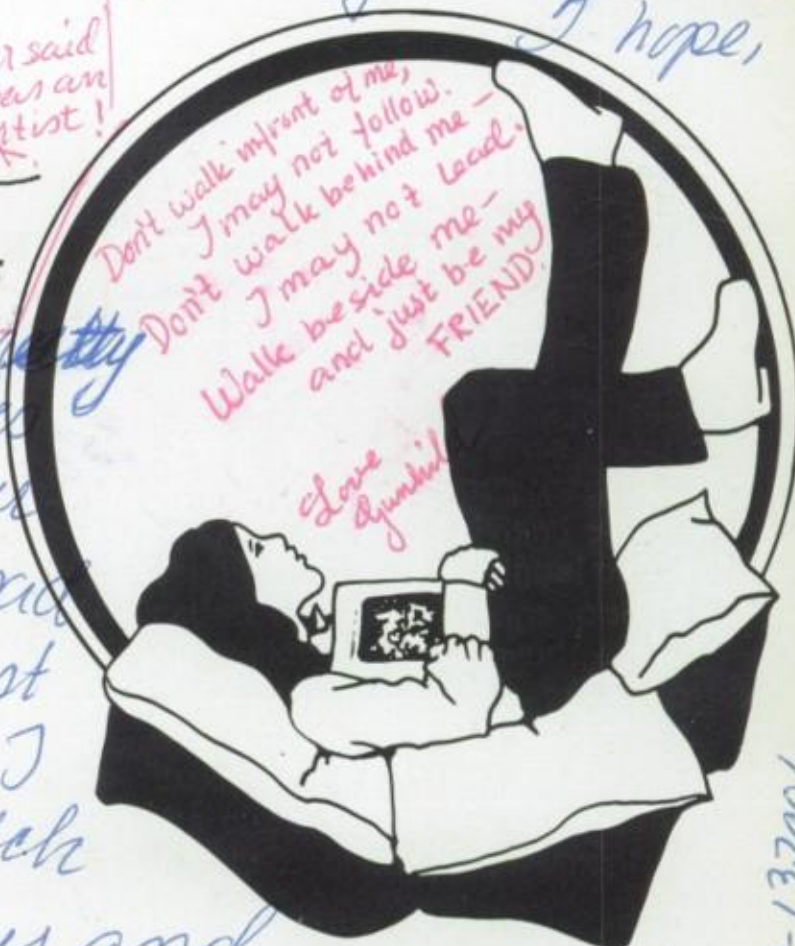

The book you have before you represents the culmination of a full year of work on the part of several of your classmates. In June of 1985, not long after the '85 LOG was finally distributed, plans begin to form for the publication of the 1986 yearbook. During the summer, several meetings were held to brainstorm ideas, arrange for the sales assembly and to learn layout technique. As usual, most of the work done on this publication was completed by young people who had no experience and received no pay. This yearbook, the best ever put out in this school, is a credit to those students.

Michael Luongo, Matt Fornshell and Flo Ybasco are particularly deserving of tribute at this time. The responsibility for the meeting of deadlines, appointments for photos and layout creativity fell directly into their hands. To say that they answered the challenge in a satisfactory way would be to understate the issue.

As always, there will be those who are somehow dissatisfied with certain aspects of the LOG. The staff has attempted to capture the highlights of a full year of school activity and sometimes, regardless of how hard we tried, the pieces did not fit perfectly. For that we apologize and truly hope that despite these imperfections, the 1986 LOG will be a source of enjoyment and nostalgia for you in the years to come.

Ylva--

Well, what can I say?! It's been one helluva year! I never thought I'd be friends with you when I heard an exchange student was moving across the street; I was totally wrong. Your friendship had been special. You've seen things from an "outsider view" and been able to advise & help me through my many problems. (Let's face it -- when life shit, you were there & only right across the street!) We've also had some wild times which are quite memorable. (Vaguely!) I never want you to forget me or all the experiences this year has given you. I'll never forget you; you'll always be my very special friend no matter where you are. Whenever you need me, all you have to do is write or phone. (Save your money first though!) My door is always open ~~when~~ if you ever want to make the most of the little time we have. Before you go, we'll have to have a party. I've given you the little time we have. When I get back from the cruise, it's given us beyond words; it's given me so much. I don't want to say good-bye & don't plan to. I'm gonna write you till you can't stand it any more! I'm also gonna work on airfare to Sweden, but don't hold your breath. Please realize how

Ylva
Did you see my new sweater, they don't feel in them like in the hall between my nice costume, but your probably of the Ammotti concert. I got to know you.

Ylva
It was fun knowing and having you as a fellow graduate. Although we didn't adventure together, I still know that you're special. Not only to me but to all.
Love ya!

What's up / Kate!

I have so many thing to tell you but I can't find it. I guess we can't say in words our experience of one year in the U.S. but we can say it in memories, a lot of memories. So, remember "our parties", and all the beers we drank and "what", we smoke at your party and the art class and the lunch outside with a cigarette and after school in the pizzeria and New York city. Of course, we had some arguments about some things and other but everytime ~~we~~ our friendship come back. I really like your personality, you leads and your talent (you are filled of talent) I hope our friendship won't stop after this year (it's up to us) because it will be too stupid to stop keep in touch. Why don't we meet each other again in London? (be careful at the cinema with you know what... just kidding).

Thanks for being my friend.
Let's see us again.

Keep in touch!

I MEAN IT.
